THE BIG CAT SAFARI Wildlife

For wildlife enthusiasts here's a great opportunity to spot the three big cats of India – tigers, leopards and lions and also immerse in the rural hinterland of the western region of India. The wilderness destinations included in this itinerary offer a great variety not only in flora and fauna but also topography. While Ranthambore is a lovely park with its low undulating hills interspersed by relatively small meadows and water bodies, Gir has a succession of rugged ridges, isolated hills, plateaus and valleys. Jawai on the other hand is a vast sprawling wilderness of ancient craggy hills, scrub, grasslands and winding sandy riverbeds. This journey is escorted by a naturalist known for her research in the big cats.

Insider Tips:

- This itinerary is operational from mid-October to mid-June only.
- Mid-November onwards is good weather for sightings, barring the twenty five plus days of intense cold beginning around end-December. The harsh summers, April till early June, offer the finest chances of spotting these big cats.
- While in Ranthambore and Gir National Park, private jeep safaris come for a supplement, but cannot be guaranteed; Jawai is an exclusive affair on jeeps and one is unlikely to meet a lot of people while on a safari.
- Add a couple of nights in Udaipur, the city of lakes after Jawai, before heading to Mumbai.
- Sanjay Gandhi National Park (SGNP) in Borivali, Mumbai has the highest density of leopards with 35 leopards in the 140 sq km area (as per a survey by the Wildlife Institute of India (WWI) and SGNP). An extra day in Mumbai could be added to visit this park.
- For those with experience of trekking in higher altitudes, we recommend a pre-tour to the cold desert of Ladakh in search of the elusive and the gorgeous Snow Leopard. Snow Leopard treks are best done during the month of October, and again in February – March. The shortest trek lasts for seven days. Expect freezing temperatures which could dip up to -20C (-4 F) on a given day and an average of five to six hours of daily trek. Grade: Medium. Average Height: 12,000 feet (3700 metres). Be prepared to trek through light to medium snowfall for up to several hours a day.
- Wildlife Parks in central India (Bandhavgarh, Kanha, Pench, Panna, Satpura, Tadoba), in the north east (Kaziranga, Nameri, Eagle's Nest) and in south India (Nagarhole, Bandipur, Madumalai, Periyar) to name a few, can be combined in different permutations and combinations to see other species of wildlife and flora in India.

THE HOOLOCKS GIBBONS

Hoolocks Gibbons, also fondly known as the Singing Apes, are found in Assam and the low-end forests of eastern Brahmaputra. These forests support the highest diversity of primates in India, including the only apes found in the country, the western hoolock gibbon (Hoolock hoolock) and the eastern hoolock gibbon (Hoolock leuconedys).

TOUR ITINERARY | EJ8

DAY 01 ARRIVAL DELHI

Warm welcome at the airport by our representative and transfer to the hotel.

DAY 02 DELHI – RANTHAMBORE NATIONAL PARK

Take the afternoon train to Sawai Madhopur, the nearest railway station to the Ranthambore National Park, the home of the Royal Bengal Tiger.

DAY 03/04 IN RANTHAMBORE NATIONAL PARK

Enjoy morning and afternoon Game Drives in search of the Royal Bengal Tiger over two days. Also visit the 10th century Ranthambore Fort which lies within the park with its ancient temples, mosques, pavilions, crocodile-infested lakes and crumbling moss covered burial tombs.

DAY 05 RANTHAMBORE NATIONAL PARK – BARLI

Drive to Barli and overnight in the 18th century fort. Take a tour of the fort, spend your time exploring the village or simply relax by the pool.

DAY 06 BARLI – JAWAI

Drive to the ancient hills of Jawai where locals and leopards have co-existed in harmony for centuries. No one here has been taken by a leopard for over 150 years. Head out on an afternoon jeep safari in search of the big cats that live in such a jarring proximity to humans.

DAY 07/08 IN JAWAI

Enjoy another two days of game safaris to spot the leopards and also visit the 15th century Kumbhalgarh Fort which has the second largest wall in the world after the Great Wall of China. and the intricately carved 15th century temples at Ranakpur.

DAY 09 JAWAI – UDAIPUR – MUMBAI

Drive to Udaipur to catch the afternoon flight to Mumbai. Walk around the Gateway of India and Colaba area and enjoy the sunset at the harbour.

DAY 10 MUMBAI – DIU – GIR NATIONAL PARK

Wake up at the crack of dawn to experience the rarely seen early morning bustle of this huge metropolis and its industrious people rising up to meet another busy day. Take the afternoon flight to Diu, the closest airport to the Gir National Park, the only home of the Asiatic Lion that once prowled from the Middle East to India, but now survives only in Gir.

DAY 11/12 IN GIR NATIONAL PARK

Enjoy morning and afternoon Game Drives in search of the Asiatic Lion. Another amazing story of the peaceful co-existence of humans and the big cats with minimal conflict, is in Gir.

DAY 13 GIR NATIONAL PARK – DIU – MUMBAI – DEPARTURE

Drive to Diu for the late afternoon flight to Mumbai. On arrival, transfer to the international terminal for the onward flight.

There were only 12 Asiatic lions in Gir forest before the area was declared a protected zone in the year 1900. Today, this number has risen to 523! Much of the credit for the increase goes to Gir's forest guards and its animal rescue team – who are all women!
