THE LEADING HOTELS
OF THE WORLD®

*“Welcome and hospitality. The traveler seeks simple pleasures.
At times there may be ambitious goals like pushing back the boundaries, or adventurous dreams of crossing rivers and mountains
However, what we essentially seek is a place where body and mind are at ease
In this sense we have our House
Here there is a great extended family
All working day after day to give vitality and purpose to one and all
Values are cherished and there is much know-how Virtues we look to spread and share on an equal footing.
And as the mystical Persian poet wrote more than eight centuries ago,
“Travel as you are and take on the journey which is within you,
And the gold of the land shall be yours.”*

Nosta Tera, Nosta Vita

The Dolomites - a UNESCO World Heritage location amid stunning landscape. Nestled in the quiet, cozy corner of Corvara village is Hotel La Perla, a family-run hotel renowned worldwide for its distinctive approach to hospitality, creating joyful and lasting guest relationships.

Ladin culture and traditions

In South Tyrol, Ladin is spoken by roughly 4% of the inhabitants; it is officially recognised as one of South Tyrol's three languages. The Ladin people in the Dolomite region distinguish themselves also through their culture, which has evolved for centuries and has its roots in mountain farming and craft work. The Ladins cherish and protect the appealing, strong and yet fragile mountain nature that surrounds them. Ladinia's typical architecture (viles) represents the harmonious bond between people and nature.

Costa Family and historic notes

The story began when Ernesto Costa, a ski instructor and plumber born in 1931, built a six-room house. Two generations of the Costa family have now run the hotel and they celebrate the Ladin tradition to the full and welcome their guests into a family setting with traditions, welcome, and gastronomy that are true hallmarks of hospitality.

The three sons of Annie and Ernesto Costa, Michil, Mathias and Maximilian are all committed to maintaining this hospitality and together with a loyal team their focus remains clear.
